INTRODUCTION

It is a new departure in the history of the world that leaders of Asian and African peoples can meet together in their own countries to discuss and deliberate upon matters of common concern.

For many generations our peoples have been the voiceless ones in the world. We have been the unregarded, the peoples for whom decisions were made by others whose interests were paramount, the peoples who lived in poverty and humiliation. Then our nations demanded, may fought for independence, and achieved independence, and with that independence came responsibility. We have heavy responsibilities to ourselves, and to the world, and to the yet unborn generations.

I recall that, several years ago, I had occasion to make a public analysis of colonialism, and that I then drew attention to what I called the "Life-line of Imperialism". This line runs from the Straits of Gibraltar, through the Mediterranean, the Suez Canal, the Red Sea, the Indian Ocean, the South China Sea and the Sea of Japan. For most of that enormous distance, the territories on both sides of this lifeline were colonies, the peoples were unfree, their futures mortgaged to an alien system. Along that life-line, that main artery of imperialism, there was pumped the life-blood of colonialism.

[...]

Yes, we are living in a world of fear. The life of man today is corroded and made bitter by fear. Fear of the future, fear of the hydrogen bomb, fear of ideologies. Perhaps this fear is a greater danger than the danger itself, because it is fear which drives men to act foolishly, to act thoughtlessly, to act dangerously. In your deliberations, Sisters and Brothers, I beg of you, do not be guided by these fears, because fear is an acid which etches man's actions into curious patterns. Be guided by hopes and determination, be guided by ideals, and, yes, be guided by dreams!

[...]

We are often told "Colonialism is dead". Let us not be deceived or even soothed by that. [...] Colonialism has also its modern dress, in the form of economic control, intellectual control, actual physical control by a small but alien community within a nation. It is a skilful and determined enemy, and it appears in many guises. It does not give up its loot easily. Wherever, whenever and however it appears, colonialism is an evil thing, and one which must be eradicated from the earth.

Not so long ago it was possible to take some little comfort from the idea that the clash, if it came, could perhaps be settled by what were called "conventional weapons" - bombs, tanks, cannon and men. Today that little grain of comfort is denied us for it has been made clear that the weapons of ultimate horror will certainly be used, and the military planning of nations is on that basis. The unconventional has become the conventional, and who knows what other examples of misguided and diabolical scientific skill have been discovered as a plague on humanity.

And do not think that the oceans and the seas will protect us. The food that we eat, the water that we drink, yes, even the very air that we breathe can be contaminated by poisons originating from thousands of miles away.

And it could be that, even if we ourselves escaped lightly, the unborn generations of our children would bear on their distorted bodies the marks of our failure to control the forces which have been released on the world.

No task is more urgent than that of preserving peace. Without peace our independence means little. The rehabilitation and upbuilding of our countries will have little meaning. Our revolutions will not be allowed to run their course. (Soekarno, Opening Speech, The Asian-African Conference, Bandung, Indonesia, April 18, 1955)

The quotation above raises many questions: is there any change in global order in all its dimensions (cultural, ecological, economical, political and spiritual dimensions) sixty-five years after the 1955 Bandung Asian-African Conference? In what sense Bandung constitutes a rupture and a continuity of historical global order? Is colonialism dead and decolonisation completed? Is the position of centre and peripheries of capitalism stable or moving? Does development means following the centre? Did multipolarism replace bipolarism? Does Bandung constitute a bifurcation in the trajectory of historical world system? Is the notion of division East-West and North-South still relevant? Is the notion of class struggle still useful? Does the end of Cold War mean the end of potential World War? Did new hegemons replace the old ones? Why does the armament technology continue to develop? Who do take benefit of the armament industries and trade? What is the place of individual living being, human as well as animal and vegetation, in this changing world? Is there any chance for the poor, the weak, the disadvantaged, to improve their state of being in peaceful way? Is there any role of humanities, art, culture, architecture, literature, religion, spirituality in directing the global change?

It is to commemorate the 65th anniversary of the Bandung Conference that questions related to global order in all its dimensions are chosen to be the main subject of presentation and discussion of the fourth edition of The Rise of Asia Conference Series. It encourages the participation of scholars from a wide range of scientific disciplines (area studies, cultural studies, ecology, economics, geography, history, humanities, languages, management, political and social sciences...) and practitioners from diverse professional fields (business, civil society, education, enterprise, government, management, parliament, public policy, social and solidarity movements...), based in diverse geographical areas (Africa, North and South America, Australia, Asia, Europe, Pacific...).

OBJECTIVES

The objectives of the conference are defined by its two dimensions: education and research. In term of education, it is aimed at raising awareness among our students on the present problems in the field of international exchanges and relevant to the future of the world and of their professional life. On the side of research, it is to study the Asian expansion in Africa, America and Europe seen from economical, but also cultural points of view because international exchanges entail cultural encounters (the Asian waves of Halyu, K-Pop, Kungfu, Manga, Bollywood, Buddhism,... that wash over the entire world provoking the phenomena of adherence, hybridisation, imitation, intermix, syncretism, eclecticism, reject, xenophobia...). In this way, the conference will contribute to the production of new knowledge in the fields of humanities and social sciences, especially in economics, management, international exchanges, international relations, ecology...

EXPECTED RESULTS

- 1) New knowledge needed for more important projects of scientific meetings.
- 2) Building of an international and multidisciplinary network around the theme of the conference.
- 3) Increasing awareness of students on the impacts of the rise of Asia in all over the world, including in their future professional life.
- 4) Reinforcement of the links University-Enterprise that will be useful to the future partnership and internship of our students.

SCIENTIFIC BOARD

The conference is prepared by a Scientific Board consisting of 50 scholars with equitable number of 25 females and 25 males from Austria (1), Brazil (2), China (3), France (13), Hungary (2), India (7), Indonesia (5), Italy (2), Japan (3), Korea (1), Morocco (1), Nepal (1), the Netherlands (1), Poland (1), Russia (2), Senegal (1), South Africa (1), Tanzania (1), Thailand (1), USA (1).
